

black cat and yellow crow

Kosuke Jodai

Gashan!!

A black cat who was a domestic cat was abandoned by his beloved Master.
Even though she loved Master, the cat doesn't understand why.

A yellow crow ran up to the lost cat.

A black and white photograph of a destroyed city, likely after a bombing, with rubble and debris everywhere. A black cat is sitting on the ground in the middle ground, looking towards the camera. A bright yellow crow is in the foreground, facing left. The background shows the ruins of buildings and a bright light source, possibly the sun, creating a glow behind the cat. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font.

"What's wrong? Cheer up!" the yellow crow said, performing its dance.

"I'm all alone too.

I can't fly because my wings are bad, but I have a lot of many performance."

The cat felt his sad heart lighten, and the two cuddled together.

With nowhere to go, the two spend their days in a place like a garbage dump.
The crow used the trash there to show off many tricks to the cat.
The cat applauded, and that's how they got through their tough days.

However, nothing changed about my life in the garbage dump,
I didn't have enough to eat, and my days were boring.

Ah, I miss that house where I lived with Master.

The precious collar that Master gave me for the first time is in tatters.

The cat looked at his dirty body and the crow dancing in its shabby form, covered in dust.

One day, the cat found a small flower and was looking at it.

As the crow was dancing again, he accidentally crushed a flower.

While the crow was dancing nearby without noticing,
the cat said "Ahh..." and shrugged his shoulders.

The cat, who was no longer having fun doing anything,
left the crow behind and escaped from the garbage dump.

The streets are crowded with people's feet,
and Christmas trees shine brightly through the gaps.

Can't get close to a dirty little cat.
The cat looked up with envy at the beautiful pure white cat sitting on the human's shoulder.

A dark, desaturated photograph of a ruined building. The walls are crumbling, and there is a lot of rubble. A cat is sitting in the foreground on the right side. The text is overlaid on the image in a white, serif font.

In the end, the cat returned to its usual garbage dump.

However, there was no crow there.

Alone in the garbage pit at night

I have no choice but to live here

The cat felt pain

What give color to each day was noticed that it was just a crow trying hard to please the cat.

“I want to see the crow again, and I want to be with him forever.”

After a long night, the crow hasn't come home in the morning.

When I looked around, I found a slightly reddish yellow feather lying on the ground.

Something happened to the crow. The cat ran out to look for the crow.

Even if the sun rises to the top and eventually begins to tilt back,

The cat gasped and continued running.

The skinny cat, who hadn't eaten properly in days, was feeling unsteady.

Before knew it, cat had arrived at an unknown, remote shore.

The exhausted cat finally collapsed.

When I looked at the sound of the waves with slightly open eyes,
I saw something black lying there.

The cat mustered up all his strength and ran towards it.

"...Hi, I was looking for you."

The black something was that yellow crow.

"Running into my old Master."

Crows were once kept in circuses as "The Rarest Yellow Crow in the World."

He was painted and taught performance, and his wings were damaged to prevent him from flying away.

Eventually it lost popularity and was abandoned.

When the Master was reunited with crow,
he became angry and hurt the crow and threw it into the river.

A composite image of a beach at sunset. The sky is a mix of orange, yellow, and blue. Waves with white foam are crashing onto a sandy beach. In the foreground, a crow lies on the sand with its wings spread. One wing is painted bright yellow with several red spots. A small brown cat is lying on the sand next to the crow, looking towards it. The background shows a sunset over the ocean with a bright sun low on the horizon. The entire image has a cracked, textured overlay.

Crow is wings and legs are in tatters, and I don't think I'll be able to dance anymore.

crow said in a weak voice, "I'm glad to see you again," with moist eyes.

The cat hugged the black crow whose paint had completely fallen off.

To the helpless cat

The crow pointed forward as best he could with a trembling wing.

“Look, the sunset is so beautiful. The sky and the sea, everything are shining golden.”

Cat and crow looked at each other.

“Ahh, my crow, the golden crow of my happiness.”

A cat and crow abandoned by an arrogant human.

As night falls, the two become one black mass.

The cat that was left behind could only slowly close its eyes.

Thank you for viewing the picture book "black cat and yellow crow." This work was created using a technique called "collage" which involves cutting out and compositing photos. This story was created by compressing and reconstructing the characters and motifs of the independent film "Lovers Dedicated to Love Song" and its sequel "next chapter" which are approximately 2 hours long. This picture book has a great meaning in the independent film "Mahoromatic Non-fiction" that will be released later. Therefore, we have released a picture book and a reading video first.

The main story of the movie was about two helping robots who were abandoned by their masters. The yellow crow is a clown wearing a yellow costume, and the black cat is a steady with a black body. It rewrites the events of the two of them meeting and living together from her perspective.

The beginning of the reading video is what happens after the last scene of "Lovers Dedicated to Love Song next chapter". The story begins with her blaming herself and cursing the world, and then waking up as an "earthbound spirit." The white book in her hand is the embodiment of her thoughts, and once she finishes reading it, it disappears. She continues to look back on her life and wonder what she should have done at that time. This led to the later independent film "Mahoromatic Non-fiction". After submitting it to film festivals and public exhibitions, it will be released in the winter of 2024. What will the soul of the "Lovers Dedicated to Love Song" who call themselves Black Cats and have regrets find out in the extension of their forgiveness after death? Please stay with me for just a little while longer.

2023. November. Kosuke Jodai

Lovers Dedicated to Love Song
Free viewing

LDTLS next chapter
Free viewing

HORAMA-LINE
Velvetic vistav Relationship

